RETURNS:

The following submissions have been returned for further work:

Anders Knudsen. New device. Per fess vert and sable, on a plate a raven sable. There were both stylistic and conflict with the device. Stylistically, the head of the bird was distinctly unlike the usual depiction of the raven or any other standard heraldic bird. Also, this conflicts with the protected flag of Uganda (“Barry of six sable, Or, and gules, on a plate a crested crane proper.”). Two differences are required between pieces of protected armory. There is one difference for the field, but the crested crane in most depictions of the Ugandan flag is close and largely sable, the two birds are different enough to avoid a conflict.

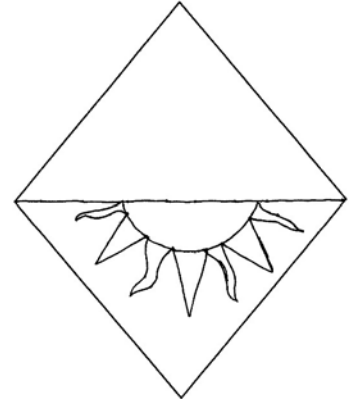

Baldric of Falkonmore. Teglach Nuin. New household name. The name was returned on stylistic grounds because it does not follow the patterns for household names given in period sources. While the use of teaghlach is documented from Krossa's "Medieval Gaelic Clan, Household, and Other Group Names" (www.medievalescotland.org/scotnames/households.shtml) as one of two names for household that Krossa found in period sources, the same author very strongly indicates that such household names were only formed with names or other identifiers (e.g., titles) of persons, not with objects or animals. Failing any documentation that household names in Gaelic were formed using letters of the alphabet in period, this household name must be returned.

Gráinne ingen Lugdach. New device. Vert, a bend between two triquetrae Or. This conflicts with Hálfdan langleggr's device, registered in January, 2003 ("Vert, a bend between a Viking ship and a thistle Or."). Two differences are required between pieces of armory for registration and here there is only one difference for the changing the type of secondary charges.

Yrmegard of Hawkwood. New device. Per fess Or and sable, a demi-sun Or issuant to base from the line of division. Unfortunately, this technically conflicts with Reiner von Radewormwald ("Per bend sable and argent, a demi-sun issuant sinister from the line of division Or.") Two differences are required between pieces of armory for registration. Here there is a clear difference for the field. However, the change in position of the sun is forced by the modification of field so it cannot be counted separately for difference.

PENDS:

The following submissions have been pended for further information:

Eibhlín inghean uí Chiaráin. New change of name from Alayne Kieran. She allows any changes. She stated on her forms that this was a change of name from Alayne Kieran, but we have not yet found evidence of that name registration. As we have not yet received a response to our query as to the kingdom and date of registration or previous submission, we cannot forward this to Laurel.

Morgan Wrenne. New change of name from Ragnailt Morgane. The submitter's desire was to have a given name that was closer in pronunciation to her current use name of Ren combined with the already registered Morgane as a given name or (preferably) surname. We have been able to document forms of the feminine given name Regina that are close to the desired spelling and pronunciation: Reine dated to 1279 and Reyne from 1260. We have pended the name submission to confirm with the submitter that Reine Morgane would be acceptable to her. In the meantime her device has been submitted to Laurel under her currently registered name of Ragnailt Morgane.

Samhran Catlin. New change of name? from Sameeah Caitlyn. Unfortunately, no action type was checked on the paperwork so it is not clear whether this is a change of name or an alternate persona name. Since we have not heard back from her, we are pending this until we determine if she wishes to release her current name or retain it as an alternate persona name.

Your servant,

Alisoun
