RETURNS

The following items have been returned for further work:

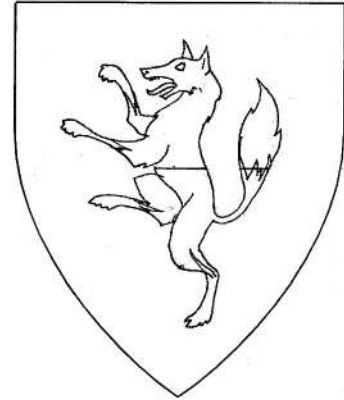

Angus of Bedford. Device. Chequy argent and gules, two boars rampant addorsed tails nowed sable and on a chief embattled Or three battle axes bendwise sinister blades to sinister gules. Unfortunately, this has to be returned because it was impossible to come up with a blazon that adequately guaranteed the reproducibility of the position and interrelation of the tails as simply using “nowed” does not fully describe the tails. While this is a relatively minor detail of the overall design, it is required that any such elements be reproducible solely from the blazon and this is not. Were the tails entwined in a more standard manner or nowed following one of the standard knot patterns, the reproducibility issue would go away. When resubmitting, it might be advisable if the submitter used fewer and larger divisions on the field.

Christoph Von Krieg. Name and device. Azure, a panther rampant Or spotted sable incensed argent collared and chained argent within a bordure dovetailed Or. The name had to be returned since no documentation was provided or could be found for any period surname that used both von and Krieg, although there is a period surname Krieger with a similar meaning. We would have submitted the name Christoph Krieger, but the submitter allowed only minor changes to the name. The device must be returned for conflict with Robert of Cundiff (“Azure, a Continental panther rampant guardant within a bordure rayonny Or.”). When resubmitting, the submitter is strongly advised to use fewer and larger dovetails if he retains the dovetailed bordure.

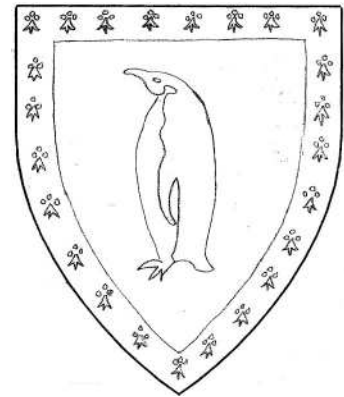

Elyas Atwode. Device. Azure, a fox rampant per fess Or and argent. Unfortunately, this lovely device conflicts with that of Junella merch Beli (“Azure, a wolf rampant ermine maintaining a rose slipped and leaved Or.”).

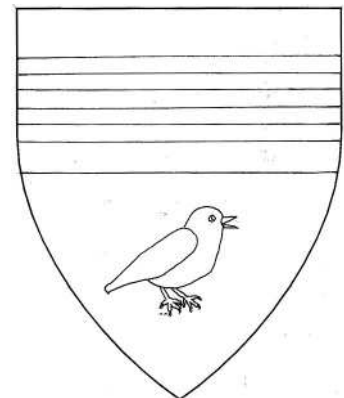

Hidden Mountain, Barony of. Order name for Order of the Blue Mountain. Unfortunately, this name has to be returned for conflict with the heraldic title of Blue Mountain Pursuivant registered to the Barony of Dreiburgen in Caid.

Isabella the Cloud Gazer. Name and device. Argent, a penguin proper within a bordure pean. No documentation was provided for the byname as following a period pattern for English bynames nor for the particular words existing in period as required by current standards. We found Godesman Gase dated to 1232 and Richard atte Cloude dated to 1327 which would support a name like Isabella Gase atte Cloude in period. However, the submitter limited changes to the name so the name as a whole must be returned. As the penguin has a white belly and feet lying on the argent portion of the field, by Laurel precedent this must also be returned for violating our rules on contrast.

Talitha of Avalon. Device (see PENDS for name). Per fess argent and gules, three bars sable and a nightingale contourny argent. Unfortunately, since by precedent the upper portion of the field could be parsed as barry argent and sable and, if it is, the movement of the argent bird to base is forced, this conflicts with Rannveigr Haakonardottir (“Azure, a falcon close contourny argent.”).

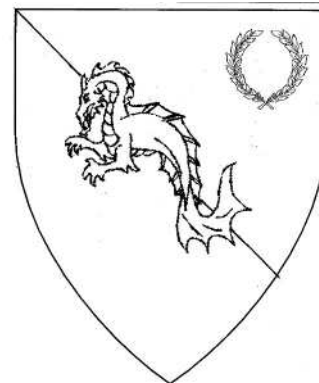

PENDS

The following items have been pended for the stated reasons:

Alisoun MacCoul of Elphane. Acceptance of transfer of heraldic title Metron Ariston Herald from the Kingdom of Atlantia. Pended due to changed requirements for transfer documents in the new Administrative Handbook.

Atlantia, Kingdom of. Transfer of heraldic title Metron Ariston Herald to Alisoun MacCoul of Elphane. Pended due to changed requirements for transfer documents in the new Administrative Handbook.

Leviathans Cove, Canton of. Name and device. Per bend sable and azure, a wingless sea dragon naiant bendwise and in sinister chief a laurel wreath argent. This submission has to be pended because the promised petition of support revised to meet the requirements of the College of Arms has not been received by the Golden Dolphin Office. (The original petition did not include an adequate description of the armory.)

Talitha of Avalon. Name. As there were issues with the biblical documentation provided by the submitter for the given name Talitha, this has been pended to await the arrival of the promised proof that the submitter's legal given name is indeed Talitha.

Your servant,

Alisoun
